A Learner Agreement is an agreement between HFRS and an employee undertaking a course or period of development. The agreement between the two parties will be applied in the following circumstances:

- Any training course or development programme where the fee for the study period is £1,000 or more in which HFRS outlay the initial costs. The training requirement for the individual will be agreed by the Service, the Individual and training provider prior to commencement of the course with agreed timescales and expectations for completion.

- Programmes of study of 5 days or more.
- Study periods which involve release from daily work activity relating to 5 sessions or more.
- Fire Service College courses (and other providers for the same course) will be included within the rules of agreement as decided by the Service.

Course costs include initial fees, examination fees relating to the training and materials necessary to fulfil the programme.

Travel, accommodation and expenses will be paid as per the current Service guidance.

A learner agreement is NOT required for the following:

- Internal training courses.
- Individual study days of less than 5 days.
- Courses for which the fee is less than £1,000 or less than 5 days study release from work activity.
- Conferences and meetings relating to individual role or references.

HFRS will reclaim costs from the individual which may be repaid in full if without valid reason:

- The employee fails to attend the course dates as agreed.
- The employee fails to complete coursework requirements and/or assignments/portfolio as expected from the study programme, without reasons considered to be satisfactory by HFRS.

Or additionally:

- The employee is excluded from the course for misconduct.
- The employee leaves or is dismissed from the Service.

If an individual resigns or is terminated from their employment learner costs for each course agreed will be reclaimed as follows:

- During the course and up to 12 months of completion of a course – 100% repayable.
- Within 12 and 24 months of completion of a course – 75% repayable.
- Within 24 and 36 months of completion of a course – 50%
- *Addendum to contract which can extend criteria c for up to another 24 months.
